

Interfaith Counseling Center

Reaching Out so You Can Reach Within

Everyone needs a listening heart sometimes.

At ICC, we are here for you.

And, we offer counseling on a free-will offering basis for up to three visits. After the third visit, it will be your choice to end your sessions because you feel complete, continue with one of our qualified therapists at his or her practice, or ask for a referral to another therapist or supportive community agency that will serve your specific needs.

Fee for Service

There is no initial set fee, and no insurance hassles. Our services are available on a free-will offering basis. That means that you contribute what you can, and what you think the service is worth. Your giving represents your commitment to yourself, your healing, and your movement on your journey.

Counseling Model

We seek to create an atmosphere of love and compassion for those seeking healing and hope. What you share is honored through our confidentiality policy. Your counselor will talk with you more about this at your first visit. We provide support for spiritual issues, personal issues, relationships, parenting, grief and loss, depression, anxiety, stress release, and community referrals. We serve adolescents, adults, individuals, couples and families. We respectfully welcome anyone—regardless of faith perspective, age, race, or socio-economic background—who wants to create a more effective and purposeful life.
